FULL COURT PEACE

Proposal to Repair Basketball Court at Wilbur Cross School, Bridgeport

Overview

Full Court Peace (FCP), a Norwalk-based nonprofit that unites and strengthens local communities through basketball, would like to repaint the outdoor basketball court at Wilbur Cross School and replace its basketball hoops with brand new hoops. The organization will cover all expenses related to this project. The work will be carried out by FCP high school volunteers, as well as members of the local community. All work will be adult supervised; the baskets will be replaced by Sport Court of Connecticut.

About FCP

Full Court Peace started in Belfast, Northern Ireland in 2006, where it brought together teenagers from rivaling Protestant and Catholic communities to play basketball together. Since 2013, FCP has run camps, service projects and high school clubs to bring together the suburban and city communities in Fairfield County, Connecticut.

A board of directors manages FCP and Mike Evans, a teacher and basketball coach, is the volunteer Executive Director. Its 501(c)3 number is 27-1107358. Its website is www.fullcourtpeace.org.

Middle and high school aged boys from 11 towns and cities have attended our camps, repaired basketball courts with us and formed their own high school clubs. Those towns and cities are Weston, Wilton, Bridgeport, Ridgefield, New Canaan, Norwalk, Darien, Fairfield, Stamford, Danbury and Orange.

The organization has repaired 12 different basketball courts, the majority located within public housing facilities; each court has required roughly $3,000 raised in order to provide new baskets, to repair asphalt and apply new coats of paint.

FCP has run five years of weeklong camps for 250 area youth, more than half of which were provided free transportation, uniforms, admission to camp and daily lunches.

FCP's six high school clubs, which average 10 members each, have raised over $50,000 for local basketball needs in disadvantaged neighborhoods; using their funding, FCP has given out over 500 basketballs to young people, sponsored two years of travel basketball expenses for Bridgeport middle school girls and supplied two different tournaments with t-shirts and basketballs.

In 2017, FCP organized a basketball clinic for world refugees living in Bridgeport. Eritrean, Syrian and Congolese boys met with boys from New Canaan to learn basketball skills. Each of the 15 refugees received a basketball and a meal provided by FCP.

Finally, with its partner organization, Full Court Peace Travel, LLC, FCP has provided over $30,000 of funding for 15 Connecticut boys from disadvantaged backgrounds to travel to Havana, Cuba for basketball-centric mission trips.

Logistics

The organization would like to carry out this work at Wilbur Cross in October, 2020. A fully-insured organization, any additionally insured certificates of insurance requested by the school, the city of Bridgeport or other entities, will be provided by FCP.
